

Continuing Certification Program

Recertification Pathways

2023 Cycle

Credential Expires in 2023 (originally certified in 2017)

Pathway 1: Meet the current CCP requirements and take the recertification exam in 2023. If you pass, your credential will be valid through December 31, 2029 and you will not have to participate in the new CCP until 2029 (the year your recertified credential expires).

Pathway 2: Be grandfathered into the new CCP by completing the online application, submitting the required continuous learning points, and submitting the current CCP fee in 2023. You will not be required to take the recertification exam this year. If you choose this option, your current credential will be valid through December 31, 2024 and you will be required to participate in the new CCP once it launches in 2024.

Note: If your credential expires in 2023, you must notify HMDCB about your pathway selection. To do so, please complete this online form.

Credential Expires in 2024 (originally certified in 2018)

Pathway 1: Recertify in 2023 - You can meet the current CCP requirements and take the recertification exam in 2023. If you pass, your credential will be valid through December 31, 2030 and you will not have to participate in the new CCP until 2030 (the year your recertified credential expires).

Pathway 2: Recertify in 2024 - You can choose to wait until next year to recertify. This means you do not have to apply, submit CME, pay a fee, or take the recertification exam in 2023. If you select this option, you will be required to start participating in the new CCP once it launches in 2024.

Note: If your credential expires in 2024, you do not have to notify HMDCB about your pathway selection. If you select Pathway 1, your submitted application will be verification of your selection.